

THESE ARE EASTER BUNNIES:

THIS IS NOT:

Every year, thousands of cute baby rabbits are purchased for Easter. Most of them end up dead, abandoned, or dumped at a shelter before the year is over. Rabbits are not a child's toy—they are living creatures with a lifespan of 8-13 years or more. They need daily care, medical attention from a rabbit vet when they are sick, and lots of love and attention. And despite their cuddly appearance, most rabbits dislike being held. So if you're thinking about a rabbit for Easter, please take the time to learn about rabbits and their care first – visit us at www.mybunny.org. Rabbits can make wonderful family companions, but they're not the right choice for every family. And they're definitely not the right choice for any Easter basket.
